REVERSIBLE POCKET

All designs come with reversible front pockets (except Camo Rex) which means that the backpack can change appearance in just seconds! Children have different preferences and these can change during the first school years. Our aim is to meet this need. Therefore all Classic designs have reversible front pockets (except Rex). The backpack can then be changed and made more neutral if desired,

1. Release the side Velcro fasteners, fully remove the zip and place your hand behind the motif.

2. Take hold of the material and turn the pocket inside out.

3. Close the zip and attach the Velcro fasteners.

RAIN COVER

We do not want the customer to forget to buy it, lose it or forget to take it to school and then be surprised by a rain shower. Therefore all of our school backpacks come with an integrated rain cover. The backpack is water repellent.

FLASHING LIGHT

Nothing is more important than a child being easily visible on the way to school! Therefore Classic 15 has reflective patches, and a separate light in order to increase visibility. The LED light on the backpack is activated with a simple press and can be set to constant or blinking light. After 30 minutes the light will turn off automatically.

ACTIVE AIR FLX 20–25 LITRE

Active Air FLX was extremely well received by customers when it was introduced in 2021. The backpack offers the very best in functionality and optimal carrying comfort. The back support system is based on a combination of air and foam padding. This means that the air is distributed and provides a larger contact area between the backpack and the back, which in turn leads to better support and stability. The FLX system means that you can expand the volume of the backpack by approximately 5 litres when needed.

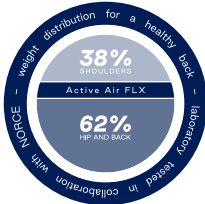

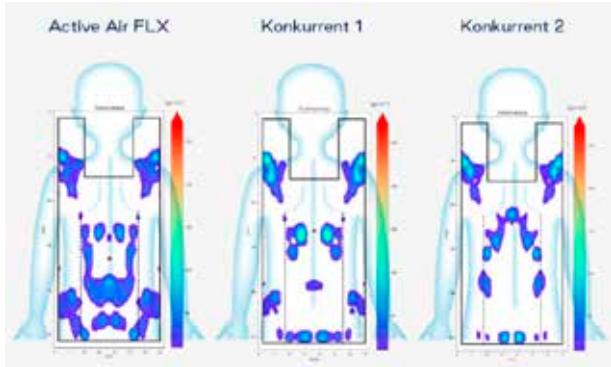

On the following page you can read more about our tests of the backpacks’ ergonomic properties using pressure sensor pads in a laboratory.

1. Top tightening straps for shoulder straps 2. Sturdy padding against the back and on shoulder straps 3. Chest strap and hip belt
4. External pocket for drinking bottle 5. The load-bearing system transfers the weight to the pelvic crest
6. Reflective patches on all sides 7. Rain cover 8. Anatomically-shaped back support 9. Good air flow around the back
10. Keyring holder 11. Separate pocket inside for tablet etc. 12. Reversible front pocket 13. Waterproof pocket for lunch box and drinking bottle 14. Water repellent and recycled material 15. Buttons 16. Expansion of approx. 5 litres 17. Air pad in back
18. Angled opening for good overview 19. Separate pocket for pencil case in top cover 20. Pocket for timetable
21. Waterproof zipped pocket in top pocket and main space 22. Attachment for gym bag 23. 4 bottom studs, 6 on expansion

In the pressure sensor tests we conducted (read more on page 9) our new first grade backpack, Active Air FLX, achieved extremely good results compared to competing school backpacks on the market. Below you can see the results from the measurements taken on different backpacks (time: 30 sec. running, weight in backpack: 2.5 kg + self-weight).

Weight distribution presented is results from Pressure mapping research performed by NORCE (The Norwegian Research Centre)

Distribution of pressure:	Beckmann Active Air FLX	Comp. 1	Comp. 2
Shoulders	38%	45%	53%
Back and hips	62%	55%	47%
	100%	100%	100%

As we can see from the illustrations above, the air pads in the back on Active Air FLX makes sure that the pressure is more evenly distributed over a larger area of the back and it offers a larger contact surface, which in turn offers better support and stability.

When you carry a backpack, it is best to distribute the weight from the shoulders to the hips. Therefore most backpacks are fitted with hip belts. This also applies to all of the backpacks we tested. However, we see major differences. By studying the illustrations and table it is clear that Active Air FLX transfers much more of the weight to the pelvic crest, compared to the competing backpacks we tested.

From the illustrations you can also see the point of the backpacks’ centre of gravity throughout the tests. This is shown with a red dot in the middle of the spine. Compared to the competitors, Active Air FLX has a lower centre of gravity, which supports the theory that the shoulders bear less weight, and that more of the weight is distributed to the hips.
